BENEDICTION

Alice Delzer, National AMVETS Auxiliary Chaplain

The wall stands, a testament etched in granite and stone to pay honor and remember those brave heroes of days gone by.

It is not there merely as a stop on a bus tour, but to assure that this brethren will not be forgotten.

Its ebony face is covered in glass in order to protect the names of the fallen and to reflect the haunting images of the brave men and women who wore a badge of courage and the uniform of their branch.

We should, each of us, offer a prayer of thanks that they were standing firm and true on many a wall, so that we would sleep safely in the shelter of our homes and our beds.

Rest well with the angels, for we will never forget the sacrifices you endured for our freedoms.
